The Reserve Bank of India has stated that managing inflation would be the top most priority and the central bank had focused on reducing Consumer Price Index. The target for inflation levels has been set at 8% and 6% for the current year and for the next financial year respectively.

Indian along with other emerging markets is facing multiple problems of rising current account deficit and depreciation of local currencies. During the year, in order to control inflation; the RBI increased the Repo Rate but lowered Cash Reserve Ratio so that the liquidity does not come under pressure. The interest rates however remained high during the year and also witnessed steep peaks during the few months following the fall of rupee.

THE INDUSTRY:

The Indian media industry is traditionally comprised of print media, Out of Home, television and film industry. During the past few years there has been addition to that with social media, gaming, various mobile applications and digitization of all traditional sectors of media and entertainment industry.

With respect to print media, Indian is the second largest newspaper market in the world after China. While globally the newspaper industry is on decline, the Indian print media is showing steady growth. Increase in print penetration in Tier two and Tier three cities, supported by growth in literacy and purchasing power aided growth in revenue of print media. According to available data, more than half of the world's adult population reads newspaper. More than 2.5 billion people read the print edition and over 600 million people read the digital edition. This represents more readers than total global users of the internet.

Further print media has emerged as the biggest contributor to the total advertising space. It superseded Television and widened the gap. It is the largest contributor at 41.3 per cent with TV trailing behind at 39 per cent. Many advertisers tried to counter the slowdown with increased advertising. Sectors such as FMCG, Telecom, Auto and real estate have increased overall advertising spend to mitigate the effect of slow down.

A trend that is picking-up recently is that of the digital edition of newspapers. Factors like changing lifestyles, particularly in metro cities has led to more people being 'on-the-move' and wanting to catch-up with the latest on their tablets or handhelds. More applications are being introduced for the print media, which will help the publishers to monetize digital content. Since the future is in digital content, the business parameters of the publishing world are poised for a major change in years to come. With increase in the usage of smart phones and tablets, there is likely be an increase in news or entertainment consumption through these mediums, along with a greater demand for creating engaging content.

So far as the Out of Home (OOH) is concerned where your company has minimized its activities, the sector is highly fragmented mainly dominated by unorganized regional players. There is no common platform in outdoor where all stakeholders can come together to address the various issues.

In past few years Transit Media as a unique combination of OOH and television is likely to grow speedily as public transportation gradually become more sophisticated; brands have already started ticking transit media in their outdoor media plans in a big way. The major reasons for that are it is extremely economical; it can be time-lined; it can be mass as well as niche; it can be engaging; and lastly, it can be highly innovative.

In fact the entire media and entertainment industry is at an inflexion point with digital being the buzzword. Every segment within the media and entertainment sector including print media is getting impacted by digitalization in a significant way. Social Media, Apps and online will become an integral part for the media including print media in coming days.
